

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is a federal agency within the Department of Defense that oversees civil works projects, including water resources projects such as navigation improvements, flood protection, and ecosystem restoration. Army Corps water resources projects are authorized by the Water Resources Development Act (WRDA).

As a part of her commitment to transparency in government, Congresswoman Halvorson is posting a list of all projects she requested through WRDA. The projects and amounts requested do not guarantee funding. The House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee is considering requests from all Members of the House and will decide which projects are authorized under WRDA.
